Statement of Judicial Philosophy

The Juvenile Court has the responsibility to carry out its functions with compassion and concern for the well-being of both the juvenile and the communities in which they live. To that end, the administration of justice should be handled in a fair, impartial, and efficient manner.

The Juvenile Court is charged with providing for the care; protection; and mental, emotional, and physical development of children; protecting the public interest through provision of programs for the supervision, care and rehabilitation of youth. This goal is the same whether the youth has been adjudicated unruly, delinquent, abused, neglected, or dependent. All of this must be achieved within the context of the family whenever possible, while at the same time providing for judicial procedures within the system of due process. When necessary these goals may have to be achieved outside the context of the family. The changing nature of the communities and society in which we live has made these goals both more important and more difficult.

In order to adapt to these changing needs, the court must develop a variety of tools for administering justice. These can best be accomplished by working with the community and its schools, parents, and organizations to identify and understand the challenges our youth are facing. Creative and innovative solutions must be sought out to address the changing needs of our youth and communities. To the extent possible, these needs should be met within the context of the communities in which our youth live, attend school, and will eventually work and raise families.

The Juvenile Court must meet the children where it finds them, intervene when necessary, and address the problems with energy and commitment. We cannot afford to merely pass the problems on to the adult system. We cannot allow our frustration with the complexity of the problems to overwhelm the system we have put in place. It is the court's responsibility to confront these problems head-on and seek to find more effective solutions.

Judge Steven R. Bird's 2017 Report

The Juvenile Court continued its implementation of the Reclaiming Futures Model and the Northwest Ohio Reclaiming Futures (NORF) Initiative in collaboration with Henry and Defiance Counties throughout 2017. During the summer of 2017 our counties reconvened to review and update the Strategic Plan we developed in 2016. We were pleased to discover that what had met our goals in most areas and were able to update our plan to adjust target dates on the remaining goal for 2017. Among others, the counties selected and implemented the use of a uniform screening tool and risk assessment tool across all three counties.

Based on the outcome from these screens, cases may be diverted to services without an official case being opened, others may be diverted to a formal Diversion Counseling process. Other more serious cases may be referred to traditional court process. At the point of adjudication the Court may refer certain low level offences that would benefit from treatment to a post adjudication diversion program for a six month period of monitored treatment. If successful, the underlying case may be dismissed without creating a delinquency record. This is an important part of recognizing that certain offenders who do not pose serious criminogenic risks, would benefit from intervention and treatment. Thus far these diversion options have proven very helpful and effective.

Reclaiming Futures depends on community collaboration to reintegrate our youth into their communities in positive ways. In Williams County Pastor Ben Harris, from The House of Prayer in Montpelier serves as our volunteer Community Fellow. His role is to develop community support for court involved youth and to encourage community investment in their futures. Ben has done an outstanding job thus far and is expanding his mission in 2018 to include organizing a Speakers Bureau to help spread the word and educate the community on how they can help reclaim the future for our youth. Our thanks to Ben for his hard work and dedication to our youth.

Our Magistrate, Karen Gallagher has continued to work on updating our Juvenile Rules to bring them into compliance with the gender neutral requirement of the Ohio Supreme Court. She has also worked to expand the options available for working with parents in custody cases on improving communication and skills relative to parenting their children. Programs such as A-OK and What About Me? are having positive impact helping children and parents better adjust to changes in custody arrangements.

The Court is pleased with the changes we have been able to implement across our delinquency, dependency and parentage dockets to better meet the needs of families that come before us. Our Family Intervention Court (FIC) has been particularly successful in assisting families by taking a holistic approach with particularly troubling situations involving multiple service needs. Already in our third year since our original certification, FIC has proven very effective. Please see the full report in the pages that follow.

We are especially pleased that our Family Intervention Court has been recertified by the Ohio Supreme Court as an Alternative Docket Specialty Court. As of late 2017 we have submitted additional documentation of our alternative Dependency Court docket to further enhance the delivery of services to our Dependency Court cases in Family Intervention Court. We appreciate the collaboration with the Williams County Department of Job and Family Services and the Williams County Prosecutor in this important work. We also acknowledge the many agencies represented on our treatment team and FIC Board. This broad based community collaboration is producing impressive results

Steven R. Bird, Judge

JUVENILE PROBATION DEPARTMENT

MISSION STATEMENT

(1997)

The Juvenile Probation Department is part of the Williams County Juvenile Court. The fundamental purpose of the department is to implement the orders of the Court.

The goal of the Probation Department is to concentrate on reducing delinquency among juveniles and its effects on the community. We achieve this goal by providing services to adolescents and their families through programming that emphasizes the traditional ideals of family, school, and community as the basis for human development.

To this end, the Juvenile Probation Department is committed to serve the citizens and youth of Williams County.

Probation Department Services

Intake

Complaints and police reports are filed with the Court and processed through Intake to determine whether the case should be diverted to the Court's Diversion Counselor or scheduled for an official hearing before the Judge.

There were 320 complaints/police reports logged through Intake in 2017. Of those, 159 were referred for official hearing.

Diversion

The goal of the Diversion Program is to resolve matters with juveniles without formally involving the Court.

The Diversion Counselor worked with 84 cases in 2017 compared to 126 last year. Sixty-nine (69) completed the program of which sixty (60) were closed successfully. Zero (0) were referred officially to Court but seven (7) received charges while in Diversion. Thirty-four (34) of the youth were female, two (2) were Hispanic, and none were African-American. The Court referred fifteen (15) cases to the Diversion Program.

While working with the Diversion Counselor, 90% of the youth did not have new charges filed; a percentage unchanged from last year.

Sixty-three (63) percent of the cases closed within six months.

Official Probation

Williams County Juvenile Court is fortunate to have three probation officers with approximately 30 years of relevant experience. Two male and one female probation officer carry reporting caseloads that are a mix of adjudicated delinquents in terms of age, sex and race; level of offense; geographic location and home school. Support services are provided to the probation department by three deputy clerks with approximately 53 years of combined experience.

Drug and Alcohol Offenders

The Juvenile Court heard 39 cases in the past year that involved alcohol or drug related offenses. The Court heard dozens more cases in which alcohol and/or drugs were a contributing factor. Assessment of each youth guides the disposition of every case.

Several of the cases were eventually referred to Life Without Drugs. Life Without Drugs Program (LWD) is an in-house program in the Juvenile Detention Center that is an intensive institutionally based treatment option the Court utilizes for youth with more severe substance abuse challenges. After completion of LWD, each youth is engaged in a furlough plan monitored by the Probation Department and the Court. The plan follows a protocol with close community-based supervision and regular review hearings with the Judge that provides for accountability, any modification of treatment implementation, and/or celebration.

Drug Screening

Probationers are subject to drug screening conducted by the Probation Officers. Laboratories are utilized if further verification is required. Screens are conducted through urine and saliva samples.

Sex Offender Protocol

To promote public safety, protection of victims, and consistency of accountability and treatment of the sexual offender, the Probation Department follows a Sex Offender Protocol that outlines time frames, safety and accountability measures, and treatment options while working with juvenile sex offenders in the community. The protocol is a derivative from other jurisdictions that addresses the specific needs of the local community, victims and the offenders. This protocol has proven to be an effective tool as sex offenders continue to comprise about 10% of the youth that come before the Court.

Electronic Monitoring

Advances in technology have expanded the options available for electronic monitoring. GPS systems and alcohol monitoring have proven to be useful tools to ensure compliance with court orders and treatment plans. State funding has provided electronic monitoring for appropriately screened “status” offenders to prevent or reduce the time and costs of secure detention.

Seven males and three females experienced electronic monitoring in 2017. Cost for this service is approximately $14 per day. Alternative to Detention funds from the State of Ohio provided service for two males and two females.

On-Call Officer

A Probation Officer is available to law enforcement 24/7 for consult on juvenile matters. Probation Officers can authorize a youth’s detention or assist in determining an alternative arrangement pending a court hearing. Pre-arranged safety plans for each youth on probation are a resource utilized as an alternative to detention.

Secure Detention and Transport

Williams County had 54 total commitments to the Northwest Ohio Juvenile Detention, Training, and Rehabilitation Center with 42 males and 12 females total, and 25 of the commitments were reoffenders. The County utilized 2344 bed days in 2017, compared to 2473 bed days in 2016.

The Probation Department transported 88 males and 23 females this past year. The total mileage incurred for these transports was 4012 miles. This was a decrease from the 4887 detention transport miles in 2016. Fortunately, these transports were all conducted safely and without incident.

The Williams County Sheriff's Office (WCSO) occasionally conducts transports when Court staff is not available or needs extra assistance. When the Probation Department transports, the WCSO can attend to other duties in the county.

Community Service Program

The Community Service Program (CSP) collaborates with a variety of public service and non-profit organizations representing every municipality in the county. The cooperation from each allows young people the opportunity to "give back" to their community. No additional program funds are expended for this effort. Coordination of the program is conducted by a Probation Officer. Youth served approximately 360 hours in community service. The Court expresses its gratitude to all of the entities that make CSP possible.

Videoconferencing

Utilizing funding provided by the Office of Criminal Justice Services, the Ohio Department of Youth Services purchased and installed videoconferencing equipment in our Court in 2011 to support re-entry planning, training, meetings and hearings.

The technology saves time and reduces costs as it is used for hearings, trainings and for youth interviews with the Juvenile Residential Center in Bowling Green and other Community Correctional Facilities in the state. The videoconferencing is also utilized for family visitation to overcome transportation barriers and promote vital family connections and involvement in the treatment process.

TREATMENT SERVICES

Four County Family Services

Four County Family Services provides individual and family counseling and case management services to youth and their families. Services are designed to meet the individual needs of each case. In 2017, this agency served 23 referrals from the Juvenile Court and the Diversion Program. A majority of the treatment services occur in the home setting; overcoming transportation, child care, and other barriers that may prevent a youth and family from participating in office-based service provision. Treatment modalities include Family Systems Therapy and In-Home Based Intensive Therapy, both of which are Evidenced-Based Practices.

Recovery Services of Northwest Ohio

Youth charged with underage drinking often receive substance abuse assessment and education from Recovery Services. In addition to education, Recovery Services also provides individual and group counseling and aftercare for those on furlough from the Life Without Drugs Program conducted at the Northwest Ohio Juvenile Detention, Training and Rehabilitation Center. In 2017, 35 youth were referred by the Court to Recovery Services of Northwest Ohio.

Recovery Services recently implemented Integrated Health Care at the Bryan office. This provides individuals the opportunity to receive many services under one roof: medical, behavioral, pharmaceutical, integrated dual disorder treatment, case management, psychiatric, education, substance abuse services, etc. The number one priority is helping people stay physically and mentally healthy.

Other Mental Health Services

Williams County is fortunate to have a variety of resources and services available for youth and families. The Juvenile Probation Department often acts as a resource and referral guide for those seeking options or assistance. Specifically, counseling services were provided by Four County Family Center to youth at the detention center. In the community, youth used Maumee Valley Guidance Center, Dr. Diane Peters, Shalom Counseling and Mediation Services, A Renewed Mind, and other private practitioners provide services to our community's youth and families.

Tobacco Education

Tobacco citations are processed through the Juvenile Probation Department. First offenders are ordered into an education class facilitated by the Juvenile Probation Department. Successful completion of the class avoids a formal Court appearance. The Court has consistently seen the number of referrals for tobacco dropping and only five youth were referred in 2017.

VICTIM SERVICES

Victim Offender Reconciliation Program (VORP)

The Victim Offender Reconciliation Program (VORP) provided through Shalom Ministries encourages healing and reconciliation through mediation, and focuses on accountability, responsibility, and restitution for persons in conflict with others. It exemplifies Restorative Justice at work.

Sixteen (16) offenders and thirty-two (32) victim referrals were served by VORP in 2017. The most common types of cases referred included breaking and entering and theft.

Victim Assistance

A victim of a juvenile who has been found delinquent by a judge has particular rights as defined by the Ohio Revised Code. The Williams County Victim Assistance Services Office notifies victims of their rights, including the right to notification, to recover damages, and to submit a victim impact statement.

During the period October 1, 2016, through September 30, 2017, Williams County Victim Assistance Services provided advocacy and information for 21 cases involving juveniles, down from 26 through the same period in 2015-2016.

Restitution

Restitution is often a part of the repair to the victim who has been harmed as a result of a delinquent act.

Payments totaling $2,697.71 were paid by four youth to six victims in 2017. To the extent possible, efforts are made by the Probation Department to assure all victims are reimbursed in a fair and timely manner. Civil remedy may be sought if the victim reparation needs are beyond juvenile court efforts.

COMMUNITY COLLABORATIONS/INVOLVEMENT

Williams County Family and Children First Council

The Williams County Family and Children First Council (FCFC) has a required mandate to provide a formalized venue to facilitate the alignment of systems, policies, resources, and services. The Juvenile Court is a mandated member of council in an advisory capacity. A juvenile court representative participates in the full council which meets four times per year.

Community Advocates for Healthy Families (CAHF)

Formed in 2005, CAHF's efforts are directed at the causes of high-risk behaviors among youth rather than treating the symptoms. CAHF sponsored its eight annual Ready, Set Relax! in October. Participant surveys reveal continued strong support for the event and a growing understanding of the underlying principal: making family moments count.

Summit on Children/Summit Breakfast

The Williams County Summit on Children has been convening since 2009. The challenge posed by the Ohio Summit in 2008 was to assess the strengths of local services for children. A series of breakfast meetings have been held to educate key people from the county about the services and programs that are available to assist kids and families.

Programming and resources available for area youth and families are presented at each breakfast. Attendees represent a broad range of participants including school personnel, law enforcement, court staff, mental health professionals, and social service providers. The breakfasts are also a networking opportunity to enhance communication among youth/family service providers and to share ideas and challenges. Thank you to the Bryan Eagles who continue to generously provide meeting space for the quarterly breakfasts.

Student Experiences

Two students from Bryan High School worked as intern with the Juvenile Court in the past year. We strive to partner with local schools and organizations in an effort to assist in professional development and training. We value our relationships with area educational institutions and look forward to interacting with their students.

Community Education

We welcome opportunities to present information about the Court's history and mandate, operations and processes, program and treatment options, and current issues and challenges that impact the Court. Probation staff present for classes at Northwest State Community College. The Judge and Court staff participates in the annual high school senior Courthouse tours and also host 3rd graders from Bryan City Schools and St. Patrick's. Members of the court staff and the Judge also accept invitations to speak to various service clubs and groups across the county.

Veterans

In a cooperative effort with the Williams County Veterans Service Office, the Court identifies veterans that come before the Court and provides information, resource guides and links him or her to the county veterans services to ensure they have the opportunity to apply for benefits that are available to them or their family.

Reclaim Ohio

Reclaim Ohio funding made possible through the Ohio Department of Youth Services provides resources for the Diversion Program, part of a probation officer's salary, parent training, administrative support services, clinical assessment, electronic monitoring services, home based services/family support, and residential treatment.

While the amount of this funding has fluctuated over the past years based on felony adjudications, it remains a critical resource for providing community-based services to youth and families with the goal of preventing further penetration of youth into the juvenile justice system, out of home placement, and family disintegration.

Mandatory program reporting, quality assurance monitoring, and fiscal auditing occurs annually for the Reclaim Grant. There was a clean audit for fiscal year 2016 with minor changes required and a Program Monitoring was conducted with no correction plan.

Family Intervention Court

The Juvenile Court was certified was a specialized docket court with its Family Intervention Court. The Family Intervention Court is a court process that takes cases out of the traditional docket and places them in a specialized docket. The purpose of the Family Intervention is to bring more intense services to cases with mental health issues, substance use issues, or family systems issues. Case may be referred to the court from delinquency cases or abuse, neglect, dependency cases. Each case is reviewed by a treatment team consisting of different organizations and service providers in Williams County. The Family Intervention Court may accept a maximum of 10 cases. To successfully complete the process, participants must pass through four phases. It is a voluntary program and all members of the household must consent to being involved in the process.

The Family Intervention Court was certified by the Supreme Court of Ohio initially on June 11, 2015, and obtained final certification on September 15, 2015. In 2017, we accepted six delinquency cases and two abuse, neglect, dependency cases into the Family Intervention Court. Four graduated from the program.

Northwest Ohio Reclaiming Futures

The Court obtained a grant from the Ohio Department of Youth Services that provided for the opportunity for Williams County Juvenile Court, along with Defiance County Juvenile Court and Henry County Family Court, to contract with Reclaiming Futures for technical assistance in applying a particular philosophy under which the courts operate. Together the plan is referred to as the Northwest Ohio Reclaiming Futures Initiative.

Throughout 2017 the Courts will be initiating the changes brought about by the implementation of the Reclaiming Futures methodology. The regional approach to the implementation should invigorate the effort. A primary component of the Reclaiming Futures initiative is community involvement and involvement of the treatment community.

PLACEMENT, JRC/DYS

When community-based treatment is ineffective, insufficient or unsuccessful, the court may order out of home placement to meet the treatment and accountability needs of a youth. Placement may be in the form of foster or group home care, or a private residential facility, keeping in mind the least restrictive alternative, the best interest of the child, and the safety of the community.

There were a total of four children placed in out of home placement. One is in the sole custody of the Court and the Court pays for the placement costs. The three remaining youths were also in the custody of Job and Family Services with JFS and the Court sharing placement expenses and case management responsibilities. Child support is ordered by the Court and paid as appropriate for parents/guardians to contribute also to the care of their child as plans are made for community re-entry or a planned permanent placement arrangement.

Juvenile Residential Center of Northwest Ohio

The Juvenile Residential Center of Northwest Ohio (JRC) located in Bowling Green is a secure community correctional facility for adjudicated males who commit offenses that would be felonies if committed by an adult. The facility has 42 beds and is an alternative for youth who may otherwise be committed to the Ohio Department of Youth Services.

Six Williams County youth were served at JRC in 2017.

Ohio Department of Youth Services

The Ohio Department of Youth Services (ODYS) is the state correctional system for juvenile offenders aged 10–21 who commit offenses that would be felonies if committed by an adult. ODYS provides security, programming and treatment.

Parole services are provided to the youth upon release to assist in the transition from the institution back into the community. The parole officer is based in Toledo.

One Williams County youth was in an ODYS facility in 2017. No youth were on parole through the ODYS parole authority.

CASES COURT SERVICES

Abuse, Neglect, and Dependency

The Court processed 78 new cases of abuse, neglect, and dependency in 2017, as opposed to 50 in 2016. Initial investigation and on-going case management is provided by the Williams County Department of Job and Family Services under the mandates and guidelines of the State of Ohio.

Volunteer Guardian ad Litem (V-GAL) Program and Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA)

The Volunteer Guardian ad Litem Program (V-GAL) is designed to serve children and the Court by assigning trained volunteers, rather than attorneys, to “be the voice of the child in Court” in cases involving child neglect and dependency. (Child abuse cases are assigned to an Attorney Guardian ad Litem).

The role of the V-GAL is to advocate for the child’s best interest. The V-GAL visits the child(ren) monthly and is available to attend other meetings on behalf of the child(ren). Periodic case reviews are held where the Court is updated by the V-GAL regarding the current status of each child.

Volunteers are screened and trained before any case assignment. Caseload size is dependent upon the volunteer’s availability. V-GALs participate in a minimum of three training hours each year.

At the end of 2017, the Court entered into an agreement with Northwest Ohio Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA). Many of the V-GAL volunteers will now serve as CASA volunteers in 2018.

Parentage Cases/Unmarried Parents

Juvenile Court is responsible to establish parentage and to hear all custody cases for unmarried parents who have children. These cases involve establishment of parentage by genetic testing, allocating parental rights between the parents and establishing child support and medical support orders. The Court retains jurisdiction over these cases until each child reaches the age of 18. Any modifications to the Court orders after they are issued require the parties to return to the Juvenile Court.

In 2017 there were 105 new paternity cases filed and 132 cases reopened for modification. These cases are heard before the Magistrate. In 2017 the Magistrate heard 292 cases.

Williams County continues to offer a Pro Se Clinic. “Pro Se” is a legal term that means “on behalf of themselves”. This Clinic has been offered since 2010 and allows an individual time with a legal aid attorney at no charge. The attorney provides forms for the preparation and review of documents. The attorney does not represent the individual and the Court requires the self-represented individual to follow proper procedures at all hearings. The Clinic has two sessions offered per month. In 2017, thirty-two (32) individuals registered for the Pro Se Clinic.

Child Support Enforcement

The Magistrate also hears all cases brought to the Court by the Williams County Child Support Enforcement Agency requesting the establishment of child support and medical support, modifying and collecting child support orders and requesting that a person who is not paying their child support obligation be found in contempt of Court. In 2017 the Magistrate heard 100 child support and medical support cases. The Court also hears child support and medical support cases brought by individuals who are represented by attorneys.

The Court also orders parents to pay child support when a juvenile is ordered to detention or other placement outside the parent’s home. The child support collected is applied to help defray the costs of these placements. In 2017 $17,340.14 was collected and deposited into the General Fund.

Parenting Programs

In all cases where the issue of the allocation of parental rights between non-married parents is before the Court, the parents are required to attend a parenting class called Assisting Our Kids (A-OK). The children of the parents who are between the ages of five (5) and seventeen (17), are required to participate in the “What About Me” class.

We have found these classes provide an educational benefit to both the parents and the children as they work through the issues that are before the Court. In 2017, fifty-one (51) adults attended A-OK and seventeen (17) children attended the “What About Me” class.

Home Investigations

Any party to a case involving the allocation of parental rights, or the Court on its own, may request a home investigation be conducted. The home investigation involves an examination of character, family relations, past conduct, the home environment of any party, the social history of any party or the child, the school history, a psychosocial and medical history of the parties and children, financial conditions of the parties and criminal histories if any. The Court has two trained investigators who serve in this role.

The investigation is a useful tool for the Court and can be offered as evidence in the trial to determine what is in the best interests of the children. In 2017 five (5) home investigations were ordered by the Court.

Parent Project

Parent Project is an evidence based program designed to help parents learn to deal with behavioral issues with their children. The program is offered two times per year and is a 12 week intensive program that requires a great deal of commitment by the parents. This program has been offered for several years and the Court has seen very good results from parents that graduate from the program. In 2017 we had 18 families go through Parent Project successfully complete the program.

Mediation

The Court can order cases to mediation. Mediation services are provided by Northwest Ohio Mediation Services. In 2017 the Court referred one (1) probate case, two (2) dependency case, and sixteen (16) parentage cases were referred for mediation.

Ohio Supreme Court Innovation Grant

In May 2016 the Ohio Supreme Court provided a $75,000.00 grant to the Common Pleas Court of Williams County to fund “Parent Coordination and Early Neutral Evaluation: Alternate Paths to Access to Justice”. This Grant is being administered by Williams County for the benefit of six counties and their Courts. The six counties are: Defiance, Fulton, Henry, Paulding, Putnam and Williams. Appointments of a parenting coordinator or a team of early neutral evaluators is being used in parentage and custody cases. Though the Grant is new, the Court has already seen positive benefits to parents and children by using this alternate dispute resolution process.

Juvenile Traffic Court

In 2017, a total of 162 traffic citations were filed with the Williams County Juvenile Court. Court costs and fines are common dispositions in juvenile traffic cases.

Juveniles receiving a traffic citation must appear in front of the Judge with at least one parent or legal guardian. Those receiving a seat belt citation only are allowed to post a fine and court costs with no appearance required.

Ohio State Highway Patrol and 4-H CARTEENS

CARTEENS is a teen facilitated traffic safety program for juvenile traffic offenders. It is presented through the collaboration of the Northwest Ohio OSU Extension 4-H Professionals, volunteer teen leaders, the juvenile courts of Defiance, Fulton, Henry and Williams counties, and the Ohio State Highway Patrol. It brings together teens and adults representing local agencies and organizations to educate teen drivers and save lives on Ohio roads. CARTEENS’ goals include: reduce the number of initial and repeat juvenile traffic offenders and increase teen awareness of traffic and vehicular safety.

Williams County Juvenile Traffic Court began using CARTEENS in April of 2011. First offense moving violations with no accident involving property damage or injuries to third parties are eligible for the program held Northwest State Community College. If a youth successfully completes the program and examination, the case can be vacated with no record.

Thirty-two Williams County youth participated in CARTEENS during 2017. Of those 32 youth, 4 received another citation after their participation in the CARTEENS program.

Volunteer Guardianship Program

When a person is no longer capable of managing themselves, their property and assets, or both; under Ohio Law a person can be determined incompetent. A finding of incompetency results in the Probate Court appointing a guardian to assist the “ward”.

The Volunteer Guardianship Program is only for persons who live in long term care facilities. The guardian makes sure the ward’s basic needs are being met, seeks services to help the ward reach the highest possible potential, authorizes treatment, executes documents on the ward’s behalf, and makes end of life decisions for the benefit of the ward.

Usually a family member or close friend is the first choice of the Court to serve as the guardian.

However, for a variety of reasons, there continues to be cases where no suitable person exists or is willing to act as guardian. Local attorneys cannot meet the high demand. The Volunteer Guardianship Program fills the void by providing a pool of screened and trained volunteers to serve those who cannot help themselves.

As a collaborative with the Probate Court, the program is administered by the Department of Aging.

Probate Court Guardianships

In 2014 the court began its Court Visitor Program to monitor the status of Guardianships under the supervision of the Court.

Court Visitor Reports provide a less formal, more personal contact with the people who are under legal guardianship. Court Visitors make a face to face visit with each Guardian and their Ward confirming contact information and alerting the Court to any changes, concerns or needs that are not being met.

Working on behalf of the Court, the Visitors completed a total of 63 visits (5 minors and 58 adults) during 2016.

The law now requires that all Ohio guardians of adults are required to participate in an six hour educational course and three hours of continuing education annually to help provide them with information and tools to help guide them in their duties in a way that is consistent with national standards and Ohio’s rules for courts. The Court must now maintain and monitor a roster of guardians with 10 or more wards under their care. Guardians must meet with wards under their care at least quarterly.

Staff Development

Our commitment to staff development and training is second only to the commitment to provide the best possible service to those we serve.

The probation staff engaged in over 300 hours of training and continuing education in 2016.

Throughout the year, the entire staff received Motivational Interviewing training which is helpful in achieving better results for youth. Further, many members of the staff received training on various issues surrounding drug use, abuse, and the illegal manufacturing of drugs.

Licensed social workers in the probation department, the juvenile court administrator, and the judge have annual required continuing education units for their respective professions. Probation officers are now required to receive yearly training. The staff received a great deal of training this year to continue to pursue an effort toward excellence.

The Juvenile Court deputy clerks attended their annual training in the summer and the Probate deputy clerk attended the annual Probate Clerk's Seminar in the fall.

Judge Bird, Magistrate Gallagher and both Court Administrators attended a training at the Supreme Court on Local Rules of Court.

The Court Administrators both attended Court Management Programs at the Supreme Court of Ohio. These are three-year programs through the National Center for State Courts with certifications in Court Management. Jerry Stollings is in the 2nd year of his certification as a Court Manager and Holly Schlosser graduated in the fall as a Certified Court Executive, having previously completed the Court Manager Program in 2007.

Awards and Recognition

Each April, the Department of Job and Family Services presents a "Cherish the Child" Award as part of Child Abuse Prevention Month. We are proud to report that for 2013, Diversion Counselor Nick Woodall was the recipient of this award which was presented at the quarterly Summit Breakfast. Judge Steven Bird was the recipient in 2014. In 2015, Jerry Stollings was invited to serve on the Ohio Attorney General's Task Force on Criminal Justice and Mental Health, and to serve on the subcommittee on Juvenile Justice.
